

Sinclair Broadcasting's action in forcing their stations to air an anti-Kerry piece, pretending that it is "news", right before the election, is a good example of the dangers of media consolidation.